The power of the Huais in China does not consist so much in any force inherent in themselves as in a want of public to withstand them, and above all a want of confidence in the governing classes. From centuries of oppression and corruption on the part of their own authorities, the Chinese have acquired so deep a distrust in their own officials that they prefer to temporise with every difficulty than endeavour to put it down by calling in the aid of a body whose action they always dread, and the chief difficulty exists in dealing with such secret organisations. SPURIOUS TEA.

At the last meeting of the City Commissioners of Sewers Mr. Elias Davis said he wished to bring before the Court a ambject of very great importance in reference to the sale of spurious tea, of a most unwholesome character, in the public markets of the City of London. His attention had been called first to the circumstance by a statement in Mesers. Sillar's Circular to the effect that 150 chests of kiln-dried ten leaves, interly worthless, had been sold or offered for cale, at the Mart in Mincing lane, and that it was stated that this ten had been tested by Dr. Sedewick Saunders, the medical officer of health for the City of London, and had been certified fit for human consumption. The fact was, that the whole of this ton had been under water for a long time; it had been covered with the stinking bilge water of the ship, and in addition contained 20 per cent. of iron filings, and was quite unfit for use. He at first imagined that there must be some mistake, but be obtained a copy of the entalogue, and he there found that the ten was described as kila-dried ten, and that Dr. Sedgwick Saunders, the medical officer of City of London, had certified that it was fit to be used for food. He considered this was a very important matter. The commission had taken an immense deal of trouble, and had gone to great expense to put a stop to the sale of tea of this description. They had been in communication with the Government upon the subject, and thought they done a great deal, but if spurious ten of this description was to be sold under the sauction of their own medical officer, it would tend to show that the public were entitled to a great deal more protection from such proceedings than they enjoyed at present. He reminded the commission that toa of this kind was generally purchased for the use of hospitals, poor houses, and other places of this description, but he put it to them how they would like to have such an article placed on their breakfast-table. He also said that London was the only port where such tea could be disposed of. and in the present instance it was such rubbieb was only brought over here as ballast. He considered the question as of very great importance, and demanding inquiry, and be therefore moved that the matter be referred to the Sanitary MOR comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Uhinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in mechinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Panti pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vas economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have To illustrate the vast scope of the work, the Trade, objects of Natural History, Furniture, following facts are submitted for consideration. FIRST APPEARANCE OF THE YOUNG Nothing could exceed the expectancy with which he was waited in London. Saturday, Dec. 1st, 1804 was the certainly remarkable and a remarka ready parading Bow-street and the of lonnades of Covent Garden and before one o'clock there was a line of people at the doors of the theatre. Before evening the line was strotching in long impenetrable columns beyond Bow-street into Drury-lane. As the hour for pening drew near, there were shricks and crushing and fainting; when the crowd was admitted, the house was filled in a few moments. Notwithstanding, there was still pressure forwards, from vast masses strug- lowed upon Insurances effected with this Office. gling to make way in; until a force of soldiers drew up before the doors; and saved the crowd within from being overwhelmed. The pit was near two-thirds filled by gentlémen who had paid box price, rushed in; and leaped over; when this was filled, these unplaced intruders lawlessly fixed themselves in the scats of others who had secured them weeks before, and there defied the owners and .. their remeastrances. Box-keepers and police were called, but, grown desperate, the intruders held their ground by main force and with indescribable effrontery compounded for their QUEEN INSURANCE COMPANY. usurpation by allowing a few ladies into the front seats. The pit was like a surging sca, and more than twenty persons, evercome by the heat and crush, had to be gragged up into the boxes, as into a boat, to be thence transported into the lobbles. As some relief the curtain was raised a foot or so, thus allowing a current of air to blow over the It was stated that some charitable ladies in the boxes passed the whole evening in fanning some exhausted gentlemen friends in the pit. Loud shricks would occasionally rise from the same place, and hands were seen to be lifted up, as if imploring aid and relief. At last some order was restored, and Charles Kemble came out to speak an apropos prologue; but would not be listened to; so he withdrew, and the play began. The actors were then ordered off, and the prologue called for, which was again delivered in a Babel of noises. The first act of the play-which was the ranting, raging, "Barbarossa"-was got through with the same confusion, the prodigy, not having to appear in it. Then came the expected moment. Mr. Borden, who was present, describes the scene:-"At length, dressed as a slave, in white linen pantaloons, a short, close, russet jacket, trimmed with sable, and a turban hat or cap, at the command of the tyrant, on came the desire of all eyes, Master William CHINA, JAPAN, the PHILIPPINES, and Henry West Betty. I had a good glass, and saw him perfectly, He was a fair, pleasing youth, well formed and remarkably graceful. The first thing that struck me was, that it was passion for the profession that made him an actor: he was doing what he loved to do, and put his whole force into it. The next thing that I felt was, that he had amazing docility, and cent. great aptitude at catching what he was taught: he could convey passions which he had never felt, nor seen in operation, but OFFICE OF THE UHINA TRADERS' IN upon the stage.
